out with these shapes. You're in for a good time with this cool puzzle game. Although it may seem quite simple, there's a lot of hidden depth here and more puzzles to test your gaming skills.
A solid cause and effect You're supposed to move around the blocks to match the figures with their shape, or rather, to get the shape of the block. You get three rounds in which you have to find as many results to bring down the score to zero. You can match them with the colours, but once you get a green you need to finish it. It's no secret how far you get. There's always a tester figure offering help, and there are some extras to free up. Be aware of the time pressure, however, because there's only one point for a single time out and no penalty for extra figures, although the time is winding down. You need to use all your brains to get the best results, and this is quite an effort. Some designs are more difficult than others. The shapes aren't too hard to figure out, but some are more challenging. The squares and circles are more obvious than the others, and the diamond is a little more unique. The scenes with 1, 2, and 3 figures are pretty simple in order to set the base. The surprises are the pictures with 4 and 5 figures. You're also assisted by the tester figure who supplies hints in order to bring down the score. A decent time is a little over ten minutes, but you can play it as long as you want. Good news. You don't need any skills to play This program takes some of the best aspects of the classic brick breaker and mixes it up with more entertaining elements to make for a fun time.
