But there was one minor glitch to report about 21.10.2016 (on Windows 7 SP1) – WinRAR 5.41e fails to recognize the new compression algorithms when extracting ZIP archives. When you try to extract ZIP archives created after 01.01.2016, you get an error message: Windows is unable to open this file. Please verify that you have the appropriate program to open this file type. So far I've extracted a ZIP archive created for.zip yesterday and today. WinRAR worked fine (same error message was displayed). WinRAR 5.41e did not recognize the new compression algorithms... But it seems that this problem is an isolated case – otherwise, many people would face this irritating error. Apparently, the.zip file created earlier today by WinRAR is not a valid ZIP file. From time to time Windows does an internal change. I believe 3da54e8ca3
