I love it, but it doesn't understand @current_user or some other User spec. Any known workarounds? I'm using json: true in my config to make it work. A: It looks like Coq requires a user authentication if the type is a logged user and not a random user. If it's not that you could try my driver where you have access to @current_user. A: I had issues with Coq 1.8.0 and 2.1.0: every test was being run with another user and the tests would fail. I switched to 1.7.2 (can't find official documentation), now the tests are being run as the root user, and all work fine. Q: Is there a 'Prevention' tag? We have a stack overflow that covers financial and personal finance topics, among others. However we often get questions about money that are not very on topic for this site. I was thinking of creating a tag that covers questions related to money, and not pay to play or finance related questions, for example prevention. I am not sure if this is a good idea or not? Is it valid for the site? A: I can't see why not. I think it would be very useful. Do

A prospective study of 77 adult patients undergoing bone marrow transplantation between May 1985 and December 1991 showed the incidence of cytomegalovirus infection in marrow was 6%, which was comparable to that observed in the peripheral blood. Only 7% of the recipients of human leukocyte antigen-mismatched marrow, 31% of those with graft-versus-host disease, and 60% of those receiving ciclosporin survived without a cytomegalovirus infection, all of which were considered to be ciclosporin-sensitive infections. Only 3% of patients with no graft-versus-host disease developed primary cytomegalovirus infection after conventional immunosuppression. Although none of the patients developed cytomegalovirus disease, the causes of the infections were not fully defined. One of the nine cultures obtained was positive for cytomegalovirus in all marrow recipients, both donors and recipients, indicating the importance of the contamination of donor's tissues in multiplex bone marrow transplantation. An elevation in cytomegalovirus-specific antibodies was observed in six cases.
