I dont think the whole thing needs to be explained in detail, that would take a longer thread than I have available, but I can provide an excellent overview and enough detail about the changes to satisfy any form of need on your part. I would simply like to say that between you and me, ELDEN RING II is probably the biggest game I've seen for quite some time and I could very well say that of any game I've ever played since it has a deep storyline with hundreds of hours of gameplay to be had and beautiful and wonderful art direction. If you don't believe me, look at some of the screenshots we have on this thread and you'll see what I mean. I've probably been playing it for close to 15 hours now and I'm still having a blast. The game is capable of a lot of diverse things and I've really been enjoying seeing what the developers were able to accomplish. Things like today's addition of a multiplayer mode are awesome and I look forward to seeing what else we can add to it. I'm a little puzzled as to what you could possibly be upset about in that a lot of things are being done for the better. Try to understand a little more before you commit suicide with these pointless flames. Keep up the excellent work and I hope everyone will appreciate your hard work on this game. I have recently purchased this game so I haven't been playing it but I'm hoping to get to it soon. For now, I'll continue with an enthralling thread on another game I purchased recently. For anyone who's interested, "Entangled" will give players an incredibly interesting and promising world to explore with monster collectibles and nice combat style. I'm sure many of you have already noticed that its art is absolutely amazing. The entire story is filled with emotional and exciting elements that allow you to easily remember all the details you encounter along the way. I'm sure that many of you will also take notice

LAA struck back in style, winning back ground with a comprehensive 6-3 win over Bayern, now only nine points behind Borussia Dortmund in the German Bundesliga. That 9th automatic qualification slot could be enough to stop a certain Turkish Airlines consortium having their €400M expansion project in Cologne, Cologne train station or the Bundesliga changing from 18 to 24 teams. With LAG now firmly back in the top two in the best league in the World - after being relegated, it seems as if no one is going anywhere. The star performers were rookie centre back Jan Vertonghen and proletry face Moussa Dembele. You could see the immense impact the two had in bringing the team together - Dembele crowding and harrying in a selfless way and stopping Franco Di Santo finding space and getting results, while Vertonghen added the ability to find space and finish, with full back Daniel van Buyten maintaining communications with the back four. It was still of course, a side that was playing without star man Luka Modric, and lacking a lot of the leadership from the likes of Kompany or De Bruyne, but that was secondary to how good they were at moving the ball freely. With four players that were born in 1995 or later in the side - Vertonghen, Dembele, Demitris Husidic and Jan Højbjerg - the Belgian side started pleasingly well, but Vertonghen in particular seemed to lose himself a little in the middle of the park. It might have been down to his calf operation, and now the cruciate ligament, but the challenge of getting the experienced and confident defender back to 100% was easily achieved with a strong start to the game, and the subsequent victory. Højbjerg, in particular, was starting well with him and Issiar where they get along, but Di Santo and Paul Verhaeghe wanted t say that team spirit is something that is part of their DNA. The Serbian from Red Star sat deep and defensive in this match when they were struggling with three central midfielders. Husidic was a ball winner
